

CALIFORNIA'S RANCHO ERA HISTORY

THE DANA ADOBE CULTURAL CENTER AND RANCHO NIPOMO

SATURDAY, JUNE 25, 2022

The stories of California's Rancho Era history come alive at the Dana Adobe Cultural Center. Visitors are engaged with our region's history, connecting with the peoples, the land, and its resources to foster environmental stewardship and cultural understanding. Rancho Nipomo once encompassed the vast majority of land between what is now Arroyo Grande and the Santa Maria River, an area blessed by rich soil and natural resources that enabled the establishment of towns whose economy was based on largely agriculture and natural resource extraction.

Join fellow SBR members on an engaging drive along beautiful back roads and in learning about the original land grant awarded in 1837 to William G. Dana and his family by the Mexican government, a grant that included Nipomo and the Los Berros region. We'll participate in docent tours of the property and experience what it was like to live and work on a California rancho.

We'll start midmorning (details to follow), arrive in time for a bring-you-own picnic lunch with fellow participants (picnic tables available), and begin the formal tour at 1:30 p.m., ending at 3:00.
